I'm trying to use that regex but I can't figure out why it's returning null. Any ideas? A: You should change the regex to this one. `[\\w\\s]#[\\w\\s]` This one would match only a single hashtag with spaces or more than one hashtags: `[\\w\\s]+#[\\w\\s]+` Or this one which will also match a single hashtag or more than one: `[\\w\\s+]+#[\\w\\s+]+` Note: I've added + for at least one, which you already had in your regex and removed them. Note: For `[\\w\\s]+` you don't need \\s before and after, and for `[\\w]+` you don't need to escape any of the word characters. And, because the order is important, consider using this regex that would guarantee to match the hashtag before the direct URL: `(#[\\w\\s+]+)(?:([\\w\\s+]+)(#[\\w\\s+]+)?)?` Live demo here Explanation # Match a single # character (`[\\w\\s+]`): Match any word character followed by any combination of space or + characters. (?:) Non-capturing group (`[\\w\\s+]+`): Match one or more word characters followed by any space or + characters. (?:) Non-capturing group ?: Match the whole regex pattern optional. $: Assert position at the end of the string ($ only matches at the end of the string). Germline mutations in genes expressed in ovarian granulosa cells give rise to ovarian malignancy in a subset of cases of the fragile X syndrome. Excessive apoptosis contributes to the pathogenesis of ovarian tumors in the fragile X syndrome, an X-linked condition in which the gene for the premutation form of the fragile X mental retardation protein (FMRP) is expressed in granulosa cells of developing antral follicles. This study was conducted to determine whether there is a causal relationship between the fragile X mental retardation protein and ovarian cancer. Tumors were analyzed for the presence of characteristic mutations in the FMR1 gene and in genes expressed in granulosa cells. Six of the nine patients examined had low-grade malignant ovarian tumors.
